4. We feel it is highly unlikely another similar groups of Balts is operating independently or in cooperation with the TIEBARS which is unknown to the TILESTONIANS. ...Should such be the case, we feel it unusual such info should not have come to our attention through [ ] This is somewhat verified by TIRRALIRRA's request for capable personnel and [ ] similar statement on the subject.

5. For clarification purposes only, we refer to TIRRALIRRA's feeling that any actual demands on his part for additional operational data from the TIEBARS could easily lead to a security break. This point has been discussed very pointedly with TIRRALIRRA and we have tried repeatedly to procure such exact data as would be of interest to us, but he has always countered with the statement that he considered our relationship of such a delicate nature that he could take no chances of arousing undue suspicion....

(Re the ciphers used in the expedition)

3. A circumstance substantiating the fact that TIRRALIRRA at least translates all incoming and outgoing messages for cipher purposes was revealed at the time TIRRALIRRA was planning his departure to England. As a result of this he was requested to procure a capable individual to make any translations that might be necessary. He is expected to return in early August.
